LADY MACBETH

PLAYED WING DEFENCE

CRASH THEATRE COMPANY

In a thrilling Shakespearean twist on the netball court, Mac Beth passionately pursues the coveted title of Year 12 Netball Captain of the Dunsinane Hell-Hounds. Expect a gripping tale of ambition, betrayal, and redemption as Coach Duncan's decisions spark a fierce battle for leadership. The Dagger Divas, a trio of dreamy melodies (think Dreamgirls but Mean Girls), visit Mac in her slumbers, echoing the bard's famous ghostly encounters. They fuel her with the fire to overcome adversity and fight on. Amid accusations and plot twists, Mac's determination leads her to the brink of glory. But her reckless actions take her to the edge of despair, creating suspicion and fear among her teammates. As alliances shift and friendships fracture, a climactic showdown awaits the netball battlefield. Will Mac's relentless drive for success ultimately lead to her triumph, or banishment?

This production acts as a rallying cry for the persistence and strength of young female athletes on the netball court. The musical's narrative reverberates with stories of resilience, ambition, and fierce competition, challenging outdated stereotypes but also igniting a fervour of inspiration among the next generation of female athletes, arming them with a suite of powerful and catchy anthems to rally behind.

Lady Macbeth Played Wing Defence isn't just another musical; it's a vibrant cultural touchstone that is set to reignite across several stages throughout the globe. It serves as a catalyst for the crusade of gender equality, inviting audiences not just to an electrifying multidisciplinary experience of music, dance and theatre, but the emotional journey of sisterhood, reinforcing the vision for a more inclusive, diverse, and equitable future for women in sports.
